

Faculty Pledge

As a faculty member of Christ the King School, I agree to join together with our administration, parents, and students to eliminate bullying at our school. (Bullying as defined by our school handbook.)

As members of the Christ the King School staff, we believe that every child should be able to attend a school free of bullying.

This is what our pledge means:

- We will learn our school policy on bullying and will discuss it regularly with our students.
- We will provide our students with opportunities to learn how to prevent bullying and safe ways to report concerns.
- We will report suspicions of bullying to the administration and seek support from the school counselor or other appropriate sources.
- We will teach our students about less obvious forms of bullying such as gossiping and exclusion.
- We will follow our bullying policy and enforce consequences.
- We will strive to recognize and monitor cases of persistent bullying and be fully informed of their remediation.
- We will refrain from supporting or perpetuating behavior toward students, parents and one another that would allow bullying to occur.
